Update Report on Restorative Practice April 2017

The restorative practise project worker continues to meet residents and community organisations throughout Cherry Orchard to provide information and training in restorative practise. Through meetings and training it is hoped to show how even using restorative language can improve relationships within families and between residents, community organisations and statutory agencies.

A community training programme targeting residents called “The story” is being run in the area to embed restorative practice in the community.

Seven local people have been recruited to take part in restorative practice training who will be able to assist in the roll out of training locally.

The project is currently recruiting residents from Dublin 10 to take part in a 10 week process drama project looking at Restorative Practice via drama and storytelling.
