HALLOWEEN UPDATE

THE LIBERTIES HAUNT FESTIVAL 2020 was a huge departure from the regular large-scale festival event that took place in several locations across the Liberties in 2019. The process throughout was particularly challenging as the city entered several different lockdown phases over the past 7 months.

Members of the organising group were on hand once again to manage workshops, distribute materials and link in with communities, youth groups and schools in the area. Everyone across the Liberties area were given the opportunity to submit their entries for the best dressed balcony / window competition, their fancy dress and Mask Challenge photos and were supplied with materials such as activity packs to keep little ones entertained. The new website <https://thelibertieshaunt.com> online show is now an asset for Dublin City Council and the community and stands as a great example of how a quality show can be produced featuring young local talent.

We applaud everyone involved in organising and most importantly the participants, schools, families, youth services and community organisations for committing to delivering this project whilst struggling through some difficult circumstances.

Of course, a huge thank you must go to all the wonderfully talented young performers and contributors. Finally, we would like to thank all the young people and their parents/families who took their responsibilities seriously and joined us in making the decision this Halloween to Stay Home and Stay Safe. We will hopefully see better times next year

WEAVING IN THE LIBERTIES

In what has been a very difficult year for many groups, we are delighted to say that the Weaving in the Liberties initiative has continued to flourish and indeed provide a very important creative outlet for its students. Due to the continued popularity, two weaving workshops continue on Tuesday morning's in the new venue, meeting face to face in Buí Chaoimhin, and in The Liberties College for the evening session on Wednesdays. Attendance has been excellent for both groups.

Throughout the first wave of Covid 19, this determined group of artists continued to network and support each other on weekly basis via zoom.

The participants have also had a series of lectures on zoom on the history side, from Dublin City Council's Historian in Residence, also a lecture from the Worth Library, a film night on silk weaving in India and next week a lecture on an 18th century botanist from Francis Street on useful plants of the Liberties. We have also developed a very good relationship with Dolphins Barn library who have been fantastic in providing us with reference books on extended loans.

Our plans include collaboration with the Tenters 100 group celebrations, with demos on weaving for families. In addition, we hope to run workshops in the Library.

Living in the time of Covid - Stories from Dublin 8 Archival Project.

In the coming weeks local schools will be invited to take part in a Covid 19 archival project. The aim of the project is to record the schoolchildren's personal interpretation on what everyday life was like during the time of Covid 19. For some it might have been very exciting as they got to spend extra time with their parents and siblings. For others it might have been a sad and anxious time as they missed valuable playtime with their friends and were denied visits to elderly relatives.

Children can tell their own personal stories through various mediums i.e., songs, poems, stories or pictures. A representative from each of the participating schools will present their stories to the Lord Mayor who will formally hand the material over to the Dublin City archives where it will be stored for future generations to come.

Orchard Centre Update.

Due to coronavirus, 2020 has been a changed time for the Orchard Centre. Having had to close to most groups due to Covid restrictions the centre has not been the hive of activity that it normally is.

As present restrictions under Level 5 prevent us opening to any of our groups, we are currently operating mainly as a much-needed Food Bank for the Ballyfermot/Cherry Orchard areas. The food bank is a service that has been running from the centre over the past number of years and is very successful. Each Friday up to 100 food bags are given out to the neediest in the area. The Society of St. Vincent De Paul run the food bank and hold their weekly meetings in the centre. Food pallets are delivered each Monday and the boxes stored in the centre. During the week VDP, volunteers and Centre staff pack the food bags, which are then stored until given out each Friday.

Dublin Circus Project.

This group have set up base with us in the centre and will be running a variety of Circus projects in the community. They will be running classes from the centre and in the community working with various groups. They have already started working with Youth Services in the area and this will grow over time. The Circus Project is a fantastic addition to what we already offer the community and will no doubt be a great success in the area. The group work with all ages from very young to a little older and a bit older again. There is no age limit on the courses. So something for all in this fun and active activity.

Future use of Centre.

The building of the new extension now allows for the old sports hall in the centre to be rented out to other groups in the area for various activities from Exercise Classes, Badminton, Football, Disability Groups etc. This will mean that the centre can offer more to the community especially at nighttime. Groups interested in taking up slots to rent should contact the centre manager.

Regular Groups.

Unfortunately, over the past few months we have had to cancel most of our groups due to coronavirus restrictions. At all stages we allowed groups in where possible, managed social distancing, and ensured safety first for all. After the first lock down, we opened up in line with Government advice on June 29th. We had some groups back that week including our Ballroom Dancing group who are all retired women.

To ensure social distancing this group all danced alone without a dance partner and it worked brilliantly. We will take this approach again as soon as restrictions are lifted and reopen the centre to as many as we can all working to stay safe and to allow social interaction again which is so important for many people who use the centre. We are very aware of the social exclusion people are suffering due to lockdown restrictions and how important it is for them to get back out and to interact again with others.

Public Domain

The Halloween campaign concluded resulting in apx.120 ton of Bonfire materials removed from public areas in Ballyfermot, Bluebell, Cherry Orchard, Drimnagh and Walkinstown. A Clean-up operation is under way at St Oliver's Training Centre Site. A contractor has removed some of the illegal dumping and the costs will be shared between Development, Public Domain and Waste Management. All stakeholders are involved in discussions on how to prevent further illegal dumping and secure the site.

The environs of Lissadel Road and Rafters Lane have been cleaned up in a joint initiative with Housing and Public Domain. The Environmental Initiative in the Ballyfermot Drimnagh Area was hugely successful and provided an opportunity for residents to dispose of household junk in an appropriate manner. Skips located in Bluebell, Drimnagh and Cherry Orchard were well-managed and organised in collaboration with community groups, Housing and Public Domain.

The free electrical recycling day in the Ballyfermot Civic Centre and electrical recycling cages deployed in Bluebell proved very popular and with a little more advertising could garner even more support going forward.

The wild flower meadow course due to be held in the Cherry Orchard Community Garden will now be online on November 11th. Aoife Munn delivers the course.

The City Neighbourhood Winners are receiving a certificate and One4All voucher. Among the Winners are Bluebell Environmental Group, Cherry Orchard Community Garden, Tidy Drimnagh, Chapelizod Tidy and Camac Park. All photos of winners will be posted on social media.
